IMPRISONMENT

The defendant is committed to the custody of the United States Bureau of Prisons to be imprisoned for a total term of 76 days, or time served whichever is less.

Defendant Rebecca Barela's offense level is 12 and her criminal history is category III. The guidelines-sentence range for Barela is 15 to 21 months. The Court has considered the guidelines sentencing range established for the applicable category of offense committed by the applicable category of defendant, but in arriving at its sentence, the Court has taken into account other sentencing goals under 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a).

The Court believes that a sentence of 76 days, or time served, reflects the seriousness of the offense that Barela committed and will promote respect for the law, provide just punishment, and afford adequate deterrence. The Court believes that, even after adjustments and departures, the recommended guidelines range is excessive. The Court believes that a variance is necessary to promote the sentencing goals of § 3553(a) and to provide a sentence that is sufficient, but no greater than necessary, to comply with the purposes of punishment under the Sentencing Reform Act.

Barela has exhibited a remarkable degree of rehabilitation and the Court believes that any further incarceration will serve only to take her off-track. Barela is doing well in school, is now employed, and has overcome her addiction to methamphetamine. The Court believes that Barela has genuinely changed the direction of her life and that she is unlikely to recidivate. The Court believes that the conditions of supervised release it is imposing, including requirements of counseling, completion of a substance-abuse treatment program, and staying away from places where alcohol is the primary item for sale, will better serve the goals of sentencing than further incarceration will.

The Court believes the sentence it is imposing is reasonable, and that it takes into consideration the factors set forth in § 3553(a) and serves the purposes of punishment in the Sentencing Reform Act. While the sentence varies from the guidelines, it more effectively promotes the goals of § 3553(a) and is a more reasonable sentence.
